INTERNATIONAL COMMERCIAL LITIGATION / CONFLICT OF LAWS

LLM and Diploma course 2013-2014

Dr Stavros Brekoulakis
Professor in International Arbitration and Commercial Law

About this Course

This course is taught in 90 min classes on Wednesdays from 4.15 pm to 5.45 pm. Classes are held at Lecture Theatre (Ground Floor), PG School of Law, 67-69 Lincoln’s Inn Fields (nearest tube station Holborn Station).

Classes take the form of interactive seminars, offered by Professor Stavros Brekoulakis, commencing 2 October 2013. A small number of seminars are offered by Dr Eva Lein, Herbert Smith Senior Research Fellow in Private International Law, British Institute of International Comparative Law.

Course Objectives

The course examines matters relevant to the resolution of all commercial transactions before national courts. The course looks into general principles of International Commercial Litigation and Private International Law, and focuses in particular on issues related to Jurisdiction of National Courts, Conflicts between Jurisdiction of National Courts and International Arbitral Tribunals, Applicable Laws and Conflict of Laws rules, Recognition and Enforcement of National Judgments, Provisional Relief and Freezing Orders.

The approach taken is international and comparative, with emphasis on the English, European, and the US regime and legal framework. Sources relevant to the course include the traditional common law rules on jurisdiction and enforcement the EC 44/2001 Regulation on Jurisdiction and the Recognition and Enforcement of Judgments, the EC Regulations on Law Applicable to Contractual Obligations (Rome I) and Law Applicable to Non-Contractual Obligations (Rome II), as well as international treaties and instruments such as the 2005 Hague Convention on Choice of Court Agreements. Equally, the jurisprudence of the English courts, the Court of Justice of the European Union, and the US Supreme Court will be looked in detail. Where relevant, and by way of comparison, the legal rules and jurisprudence of other jurisdictions will also be reviewed.

Course Webpage at QMplus

Regular access to the webpage of the course at QMplus (https://qmplus.qmul.ac.uk/login/index.php) is essential. All Course materials, including handouts, slides of the classes, tutorial questions, additional reading material, past-exam papers, and the primary course materials will be posted for the student’s reference. Students will be presumed to have become aware of any information or announcement posted on the Course Webpage.

Primary Course Materials

As soon as possible in the first term, students will be distributed one volume of primary course materials, containing all the laws, regulations and international treaties that are considered essential for the purposes of the course. Students are strongly advised to bring a copy of these primary course-materials with them in every seminar and tutorial, as references to the materials will be made regularly throughout the course. More importantly, students will be allowed to take a copy of the course materials in their final written examinations, provided that they are NOT annotated (students may underline or highlight, but NOT add any note whatsoever).

Tutorials

Four sessions of tutorials will be held throughout the year covering all the main areas of the course, i.e. jurisdiction, applicable laws, enforcement and special topics of procedure and applicable laws. Details about the venue and dates of the tutorials will be announced during the year. We consider tutorials a very essential part of the learning process for this course, where students have the opportunity to discuss in depth and detail topics reviewed in the class. Tutorial questions will be posted on the course webpage at least one week in advance, so that student have enough time to prepare for the discussion in the tutorial class. Although it is not mandatory, attendance of tutorials is strongly suggested, and indeed expected.
Recommended textbooks

There is no single textbook that fully matches the structure and content of the course. Three main textbooks are recommended, but there are other several ones that cover the four main areas of the course (i.e. jurisdiction, applicable laws, enforcement, special issues of procedure and applicable laws).

Students are advised to look into the following textbooks before deciding which one to buy.

Main Textbooks

The following three textbooks cover best (although not entirely) the structure and content of the course

Further Relevant Textbooks and Reference Works

The following textbooks and reference works are highly relevant to the course and cover a big part of it – they can be used in addition to one of the above main textbooks

- R Fentiman, International Commercial Litigation (OUP 2010): this is an excellent textbook which covers the content of the course, although it does not follow its structure
- J H C Morris, The Conflict of Laws, 7th edition (Sweet & Maxwell 2009): a clearly written and updated textbook which covers big parts of the content of the course
- Clarkson & Hill, The Conflict of Laws, 4th edition (OUP 2011): this covers in detail the second part of the course, but only briefly the first part
- Dicey, Morris & Collins, The Conflict of Laws, 14th edition (2010), with cumulative supplements: this is an extensive reference work (the most authoritative work on private international law) but it is not a textbook

Further books / monographs /collections of essays

In addition to the above textbooks, the following works will provide students with useful information in relation to some specific parts of the course (the books that are most relevant to parts of the course are indicated with an asterisk)

• Pitel & Rafferty, Canadian Conflict of Laws (Toronto: Irwin Law, 2010)
